PARENTING

Special

Children are a blessing, no matter how mischievous they are. However, bringing up kids can be daunting at times, especially if you are a new parent.

While the question: "Are we doing this right?" is a common refrain, many parents continuously mull over choices on the right education centre, nutrition needs, and even toys or learning programmes that play a big part in a child's growth.

To help parents bring up their children in a healthier environment, The Star is running a monthly Parenting Supplement to keep you informed of the latest parenting practices, products and services.

Join us and let our readers know what you have to offer.
